Job Summary:

The Data Organization within The Walt Disney Company Direct to Consumer (DTC) business is seeking a Data Analyst to join our Bundle Experimentation & Analytics team. This team plays a crucial role in supporting the Disney Bundle, comprised of Hulu, Disney+, and ESPN+ in a single product. This initiative is key to the expansion of DTC's streaming services in the US.

Our team uses data, statistical modeling/techniques, experimentation frameworks, and other tools to help our business clients make informed, data-driven decisions. We are trying to better understand Bundle trends, subscribers, and user behavior end-to-end by providing support across experimentation, analytics, and comprehensive reporting. In this role, the Data Analyst will collaborate with Marketing, Product, Data Science, Data Solutions, and other teams to not only provide high-visibility, in-depth insights on Bundle growth, but will become a true thought partner to our business partners, helping to craft strategy. We are looking for someone who has a passion for using large data sets to tackle sophisticated business problems!

Responsibilities

- Partner closely with business leaders to define the most pressing business challenges on Bundle trends and drivers and build analytical frameworks to answer these questions
- Help to craft an ongoing insights pipeline, ensuring that all business partners have a continuous stream of Bundle intel
- Perform comprehensive trend analyses, evaluating the contributions of drivers from all possible angles
- Define and analyze audience segments to continue driving Bundle growth
- Partner with other Analytics teams to understand and harness all available Bundle data from disparate sources, uniting insights into a cohesive, actionable story

Basic Qualifications

- Bachelor's degree in Data Analytics, Mathematics, Data Science, or comparable field of study, and/or equivalent work experience
- Minimum of 3 years of hands-on analytical work experience with R/Python/SAS (or another statistical analysis tool) and SQL
- Knowledge of statistical modeling, machine learning, and other quantitative approaches, including but not limited to linear and logistic regression, significance testing, data preparation for modeling, and segmentation techniques
- Expertise manipulating large data sets, interpreting data trends, and using a multitude of disparate data sources and tools
- Experience with data visualization tools such as Tableau, Looker, etc.
